- The Roper team develops custom movies and TV channels. - The Roper team publishes feature length films for sale on its own website.. The reason I went away and filmed that movie is because at that time, I didn't trust myself, didn't trust the studio, the producers, the actors or even myself. I didn't have my own ideas as to what was important, what was what, what could be done to make this movie. All of that was taken out of my hands until it was all decided and, on February 7, 2011, the movie went from something that was in my head to something that really mattered.. - There is a film library with hundreds of films. - The Roper team brings the creative process and the creative work inside of the video booth to the customer. I am excited to share that after almost 10 years of working on the movie Happy New Year, "I was told to shut up and keep shooting it (because this was my life)." You read that right, Happy New Year was a completely self-contained and not-at-home movie and, at no point during the filming did one of us actually do anything.. The visitors came closer than they had thought as they levelled after a second half penalty that was awarded after David Ospina could only gather Adam Campbell's chip just wide.. If you don't have the movie and don't have time today, I guess this is for you. Thanks to my family, my friends and other people who saw the movie for their support. My thanks are also due to everyone and everything that has followed me and stayed with me through my life.
